

WHAT REALLY HAPPENED IN FLORIDA ?

LOOK AT THE FACTS ...

More than 200,000 registered Democrats in Florida voted for George W. Bush and over half of the registered Democrats there did not vote at all. [1]

Every one of the eight third-party presidential candidates in Florida received more than the 543 votes cited as the deciding factor in the election. [2]

The Florida courts ruled along party lines to uphold the vote count certified by Secretary of State Katherine Harris, despite a clear conflict of interest (she was co-chair of Bush's Florida campaign!) [3]

Another 94,000 Florida voters were removed from voter rolls as supposed felons. Yet more than 95% of them were in fact not convicted felons and should not have been disqualified. The majority of these voters were registered Democrats. [4]

Ballots were discarded in instances where voters both filled in the bubble and wrote their candidate's name. If these had been included in the count, Gore would have had a net gain of 662 votes, enough to win the election. [5]

In the highly Democratic county of Palm Beach, an abnormally large number of votes were cast for the conservative candidate Pat Buchanan. Buchanan himself estimated that 95% of these 3,500 votes were intended for Gore's because of the faulty "butterfly" ballot. [6]

According to exit polls, over half of the Nader voters would have stayed home, 25% would have voted for Gore, and 15% would have voted for Bush. The rest would have voted for another third party candidate. [7]

Nader '08
Gonzalez

REJECT THE SPOILER MYTH

[1] San Francisco Chronicle (2000 Nov. 8), "Election 2000": Making Voter News Service. [2] Frenkel, J., Clerk of the House of Representatives. (Corrected to June 21, 2001) Statistics of the Presidential and Congressional Election of November 7, 2000. [3] Wallace, J. N., editor (2001) The Unfinished Election of 2000: Leading Scholars Examine America's Strangest Election. New York, NY: Basic Books. A Member of the Perseus Books Group. [4] Kelly, G. The Clearer, Greater Media Group. (2002, Oct. 31) "Not an emergency." Retrieved April 05, 2003, from www.organspot.com. [5] Katsaris, G. and Metz, J., Washington Post. (2001 Nov. 15) "Florida ballot tabler altered most in 2000." Retrieved April 05, 2003, from http://www.washingtonpost.com. [6] Nichols, J. (2001) "Jaws for Buchanan: Did you hear the one about the theft of the American Presidency?" New York, NY: The New Press. [7] Simmons, S. and Simmons, J.R. It's Worth For Those 7 "6" 8" Nader Voters we Wouldn't Be in This Mess: The Social Determinants of the Nader Vote and the Consequences on Political Choice. New Political Science, June 1, 2000. [8] John Halperin: The Connecticut Kid. New York Magazine May 29, 2000. Accessed at: http://nymag.com/news/politics/10086/

PAID FOR BY NADER FOR PRESIDENT 2008

WHAT REALLY HAPPENED IN FLORIDA ?

LOOK AT THE FACTS ...

More than 200,000 registered Democrats in Florida voted for George W. Bush and over half of the registered Democrats there did not vote at all. [1]

Every one of the eight third-party presidential candidates in Florida received more than the 543 votes cited as the deciding factor in the election. [2]

The Florida courts ruled along party lines to uphold the vote count certified by Secretary of State Katherine Harris, despite a clear conflict of interest (she was co-chair of Bush's Florida campaign!) [3]

Another 94,000 Florida voters were removed from voter rolls as supposed felons. Yet more than 95% of them were in fact not convicted felons and should not have been disqualified. The majority of these voters were registered Democrats. [4]

Ballots were discarded in instances where voters both filled in the bubble and wrote their candidate's name. If these had been included in the count, Gore would have had a net gain of 662 votes, enough to win the election. [5]

In the highly Democratic county of Palm Beach, an abnormally large number of votes were cast for the conservative candidate Pat Buchanan. Buchanan himself estimated that 95% of these 3,500 votes were intended for Gore's because of the faulty "butterfly" ballot. [6]

According to exit polls, over half of the Nader voters would have stayed home, 25% would have voted for Gore, and 15% would have voted for Bush. The rest would have voted for another third party candidate. [7]

Nader '08
Gonzalez

REJECT THE SPOILER MYTH

[1] San Francisco Chronicle (2000 Nov. 8), "Election 2000": Making Voter News Service. [2] Frenkel, J., Clerk of the House of Representatives. (Corrected to June 21, 2001) Statistics of the Presidential and Congressional Election of November 7, 2000. [3] Wallace, J. N., editor (2001) The Unfinished Election of 2000: Leading Scholars Examine America's Strangest Election. New York, NY: Basic Books. A Member of the Perseus Books Group. [4] Kelly, G. The Clearer, Greater Media Group. (2002, Oct. 31) "Not an emergency." Retrieved April 05, 2003, from www.organspot.com. [5] Katsaris, G. and Metz, J., Washington Post. (2001 Nov. 15) "Florida ballot tabler altered most in 2000." Retrieved April 05, 2003, from http://www.washingtonpost.com. [6] Nichols, J. (2001) "Jaws for Buchanan: Did you hear the one about the theft of the American Presidency?" New York, NY: The New Press. [7] Simmons, S. and Simmons, J.R. It's Worth For Those 7 "6" 8" Nader Voters we Wouldn't Be in This Mess: The Social Determinants of the Nader Vote and the Consequences on Political Choice. New Political Science, June 1, 2000. [8] John Halperin: The Connecticut Kid. New York Magazine May 29, 2000. Accessed at: http://nymag.com/news/politics/10086/

PAID FOR BY NADER FOR PRESIDENT 2008

WHAT REALLY HAPPENED IN FLORIDA ?

LOOK AT THE FACTS ...

More than 200,000 registered Democrats in Florida voted for George W. Bush and over half of the registered Democrats there did not vote at all. [1]

Every one of the eight third-party presidential candidates in Florida received more than the 543 votes cited as the deciding factor in the election. [2]

The Florida courts ruled along party lines to uphold the vote count certified by Secretary of State Katherine Harris, despite a clear conflict of interest (she was co-chair of Bush's Florida campaign!) [3]

Another 94,000 Florida voters were removed from voter rolls as supposed felons. Yet more than 95% of them were in fact not convicted felons and should not have been disqualified. The majority of these voters were registered Democrats. [4]

Ballots were discarded in instances where voters both filled in the bubble and wrote their candidate's name. If these had been included in the count, Gore would have had a net gain of 662 votes, enough to win the election. [5]

In the highly Democratic county of Palm Beach, an abnormally large number of votes were cast for the conservative candidate Pat Buchanan. Buchanan himself estimated that 95% of these 3,500 votes were intended for Gore's because of the faulty "butterfly" ballot. [6]

According to exit polls, over half of the Nader voters would have stayed home, 25% would have voted for Gore, and 15% would have voted for Bush. The rest would have voted for another third party candidate. [7]

Nader '08
Gonzalez

REJECT THE SPOILER MYTH

[1] San Francisco Chronicle (2000 Nov. 8), "Election 2000": Making Voter News Service. [2] Frenkel, J., Clerk of the House of Representatives. (Corrected to June 21, 2001) Statistics of the Presidential and Congressional Election of November 7, 2000. [3] Wallace, J. N., editor (2001) The Unfinished Election of 2000: Leading Scholars Examine America's Strangest Election. New York, NY: Basic Books. A Member of the Perseus Books Group. [4] Kelly, G. The Clearer, Greater Media Group. (2002, Oct. 31) "Not an emergency." Retrieved April 05, 2003, from www.organspot.com. [5] Katsaris, G. and Metz, J., Washington Post. (2001 Nov. 15) "Florida ballot tabler altered most in 2000." Retrieved April 05, 2003, from http://www.washingtonpost.com. [6] Nichols, J. (2001) "Jaws for Buchanan: Did you hear the one about the theft of the American Presidency?" New York, NY: The New Press. [7] Simmons, S. and Simmons, J.R. It's Worth For Those 7 "6" 8" Nader Voters we Wouldn't Be in This Mess: The Social Determinants of the Nader Vote and the Consequences on Political Choice. New Political Science, June 1, 2000. [8] John Halperin: The Connecticut Kid. New York Magazine May 29, 2000. Accessed at: http://nymag.com/news/politics/10086/

PAID FOR BY NADER FOR PRESIDENT 2008

WHAT REALLY HAPPENED IN FLORIDA ?

LOOK AT THE FACTS ...

More than 200,000 registered Democrats in Florida voted for George W. Bush and over half of the registered Democrats there did not vote at all. [1]

Every one of the eight third-party presidential candidates in Florida received more than the 543 votes cited as the deciding factor in the election. [2]

The Florida courts ruled along party lines to uphold the vote count certified by Secretary of State Katherine Harris, despite a clear conflict of interest (she was co-chair of Bush's Florida campaign!) [3]

Another 94,000 Florida voters were removed from voter rolls as supposed felons. Yet more than 95% of them were in fact not convicted felons and should not have been disqualified. The majority of these voters were registered Democrats. [4]

Ballots were discarded in instances where voters both filled in the bubble and wrote their candidate's name. If these had been included in the count, Gore would have had a net gain of 662 votes, enough to win the election. [5]

In the highly Democratic county of Palm Beach, an abnormally large number of votes were cast for the conservative candidate Pat Buchanan. Buchanan himself estimated that 95% of these 3,500 votes were intended for Gore's because of the faulty "butterfly" ballot. [6]

According to exit polls, over half of the Nader voters would have stayed home, 25% would have voted for Gore, and 15% would have voted for Bush. The rest would have voted for another third party candidate. [7]

Nader '08
Gonzalez

REJECT THE SPOILER MYTH

[1] San Francisco Chronicle (2000 Nov. 8), "Election 2000": Making Voter News Service. [2] Frenkel, J., Clerk of the House of Representatives. (Corrected to June 21, 2001) Statistics of the Presidential and Congressional Election of November 7, 2000. [3] Wallace, J. N., editor (2001) The Unfinished Election of 2000: Leading Scholars Examine America's Strangest Election. New York, NY: Basic Books. A Member of the Perseus Books Group. [4] Kelly, G. The Clearer, Greater Media Group. (2002, Oct. 31) "Not an emergency." Retrieved April 05, 2003, from www.organspot.com. [5] Katsaris, G. and Metz, J., Washington Post. (2001 Nov. 15) "Florida ballot tabler altered most in 2000." Retrieved April 05, 2003, from http://www.washingtonpost.com. [6] Nichols, J. (2001) "Jaws for Buchanan: Did you hear the one about the theft of the American Presidency?" New York, NY: The New Press. [7] Simmons, S. and Simmons, J.R. It's Worth For Those 7 "6" 8" Nader Voters we Wouldn't Be in This Mess: The Social Determinants of the Nader Vote and the Consequences on Political Choice. New Political Science, June 1, 2000. [8] John Halperin: The Connecticut Kid. New York Magazine May 29, 2000. Accessed at: http://nymag.com/news/politics/10086/

PAID FOR BY NADER FOR PRESIDENT 2008